Sex Addiction

Convenient excuse or inconvenient reality

A workshop with Helen Keen

About the workshop

Dr Helen Keen, a previous New Therapist speaker, will bring her decades of experience in the addiction field to bear on the topic.

Helen will interrogate whether this is, indeed, an addiction before going on to synthesise the research and thinking on this topic, looking at a range of issues from causation to symptoms and, most importantly, treatment.

Material to be covered includes the following:

- Introduction to the concept of addiction
- Causation of addiction
- Development of sex addiction
- The four rewards of addiction
- Courtship and the 10 compulsive types of sex addiction
- Co-addiction (specifically in the partner)
- Multiple addictions
- Cybersex
- Screening for sex addiction
- Treatment

When:

31 May, 2014

About the presenter

Dr. Helen Keen has been in practice as a social worker since 1983. She completed a Masters in Medical Science Degree in 1993, and a PhD on the topic of Multiple Addictions and Addiction Interaction Disorder through UKZN in 2014. The research investigated the prevalence of multiple addictions, particularly sex and gambling, amongst people admitted for treatment of substance use disorders. In addition to working with addiction, she has extensive experience in statutory work, group work, trauma counseling, psychiatric social work and family therapy. She is particularly interested in group treatment programmes that focus on the issue of addiction interaction.
